White School Turns Down 23 Negro Children In City

By JACK FREEMAN

A group of 23 Negro children tried to enroll at the new all-white William R. Harrison School on Talliaferro Street at the south end of Montgomery yesterday. They were turned down.

The move, apparently designed to serve as the basis for a lawsult to bring Alabama's segre- gation laws before the U. S. Su- preme Court, was the first effort Negroes in the state have made to enter white schools since the court ruled segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

Nesbitt Elmore, a white at- torney representing the group, said, "We definitely plan to take the issue into court."

The probable issue in the suit, if decided by the Supreme Court, could affect school practices not only in the South, but throughout the country. It may test the common technique of "adjusting" school districts to segregate the races.

He said no decision has been made on when or where the suit would be filed, but said it would probably be in U. S. District Court here "since it is a federal question."

The reason principal Robert Anderson gave for turning down the enrollment applications was all the children lived in another school district, that of Abraham's Vineyard.

The Abraham's Vineyard school, with three classrooms and an enrollment of approximately 90 Negro students, is on the same block as the brand-new Harrison school, with more than 20 modern classrooms and an enrollment of more than 550 white students.

Aubrey Williams Jr. Reports 2 Threats Made Against Life

Aubrey Williams Jr., 117 Day- is Dr., who accompanied a group of 23 Negro children attempting to register at William Harrison Elementary School yesterday, received two threatening telephone calls yesterday afternoon.

Williams said he had dismissed the calls as "just excited people." He said one man told him, "We'll get you tonight!" The other said, "We'll meet up some- times."

He added that many other telephone calls also were received. Williams was in bed most of the day suffering from a case of the flu. He said "someone else" answered the telephone most of the time.

Meanwhile, a citizen named Aubrey L. Williams, an employee of the Alabama Power Co. who lives in Chisholm at 339 Broad- way, phoned The Advertiser in some distress about 3 p.m. yesterday.

He had commenced getting phone calls, "giving me down-in- the-country" for trying to de- stroy school segregation in Mont- gomery, Williams had not seen the noon edition of the Alabama Journal relating that a man named Aubrey Williams Jr. had accompanied a group of Negro children to enroll in a white school.

"Oh, I see," Aubrey L. said. "Well, I sure didn't have any- thing to do with that."

PHENIX CITY, Ala. Sept. 2 (U) —The Russell County Grand Jury will return its second report to- morrow and some 25 indictments, virtually all concerning election frauds, are expected.

Special Solicitor George C. Johnson Jr. said the report will be released after the grand jury reconvenes at 2 p.m. (EST). But the report is not expected before 3:30 p.m. because Special Judge Walter B. Jones of Montgomery notified court officials he cannot get to Phenix City before that time.

It is expected to contain in- dictments growing out of both the May 4 Democratic primary and the June 1 runoff elections. Prac- tically all witnesses called before the jury since Monday have been previously linked with the con- troversy over election irregulari- ties.

Based their estimates on the number of witnesses and infor- mation learned from officials, reporters estimated about 25 in- dictments will be returned—sev- eral against former Phenix City and Russell County law enforce- ment officers.

One source said the grand jury may then recess its vice hunt for a two-week rest.

The first report in which 545 indictments were returned was re- leased just last Monday. All but 16 of the 59 persons named in the indictments have been picked up. Former Chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller and Aaron Smith, a former deputy, have already

Selma Death Ruled Suicide

(Special To The Advertiser)

SELMA, Ala., Sept. 2.—A verdict of suicide was rendered in the death of Mrs. W. J. Simmons Sr. who was discovered seated in an automobile just inside the New Live Oak Cemetery at 1:30 p.m. today.

The cemetery custodian, Douglas Bullard, reported Mrs. Simmons frequently came to the cemetery to visit her husband's grave. Bullard found the body seated behind the steering wheel. A .38 pistol bullet had entered her right temple.

A note had been left by Mrs. Simmons giving her name and the name of her daughter, Mrs. A. T. Little of Pratersville.

Capt. Wilson Baker of the Selma Police Department, who investigated the death, reported Mrs. Simmons had been in ill health for some time.

Surviving besides Mrs. Little are a son, Robert Simmons of Sardinia; two sisters, Mrs. R. D. Stewart of El Paso, Tex., and Mrs. Robert Rives of Collingwood; one brother, Whit Hardy of Montgomery; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 4 p.m. from Breslin Service Chapel with the Rev. E. E. Warren of Orvel Baptist Church officiating.

Body Of Infant Found In City Garbage Dump

The body of an infant, believed to be a Negro, was found by workers among garbage at the city dump yesterday.

Dr. M. B. Kirkpatrick, coroner, said the infant had been born about five months prematurely. He added he could not say whether an abortion had been performed or not.

The body was turned over to a funeral home for burial.

Led By Williams

They were "led into the school," according to Anderson, by Aubrey Williams Jr., son of the former administrator of the old National Youth Administration, now publisher of the Southern Farmer.

Williams said afterwards he went along because of "friendly interest" and "because I was interested in seeing democracy at work." He said he had nothing to do with organizing the group, but he was interested in seeing de-segregation come about in the public schools.

The group, sponsored by the Abraham's Vineyard P-T-A, was taken into Anderson's office where the children filled out the customary enrollment blanks. After checking the addresses on the blanks, Anderson told the children they would have to enroll at the Abraham's Vineyard school.

Horace G. Bell, treasurer of the Montgomery chapter of the NAACP, who accompanied the group as an "observer," said the group was treated "as cordially as possible."

Lawsuit For Sure

But he said a lawsuit would definitely come out of the incident. The issue, as he defined it, is whether the county can exclude Negroes from a school by manipulating the district line.

The Harrison school district is bounded on the south by Martin Patton road, directly behind the school. There is a Negro residential area across the street.

Bell said, "We are going to get together soon to decide what our next step will be. It is quite certain that we are not going to let the matter drop now."

His son, William Bell, applied for admittance to API in 1948, but later withdrew his application because "I was upset over all the talk around town about it." He is now teaching school at Clanton.

R. L. Matthews, president of the Montgomery NAACP branch, denied any knowledge of the plans to enroll the Negro children in the white school.

Food spoilage grew in proportion to the extension of powerless-freezing plants. Uncounted housewives in both states already were discarding fresh meat and frozen foods that have just about thoroughly thawed out in the past 48 hours.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Herter proclaimed a state of emergency and ordered all supplies of dry ice seized for distribution in areas threatened with food spoilage. Thousands of homes faced the Labor Day weekend with no refrigeration of any kind.

Gov. Herter also has directed the hurricane disaster be considered at next Tuesday's special session of the Legislature. He has not yet acted on a suggestion that food stores be allowed to remain open over the long weekend.

While emergency and regular repair crews continued the work of clearing fallen trees and restoring electric and telephone service, the search went on for the bodies of five children, two of them infants, who vanished in Tuesday's storm.

At Falmouth, Mass., hundreds of police and volunteers hunted for the bodies of Paula Winick, 7; her sister, Eliza, 5, and her brother, Neal, 2. Their mother and aunt perished in their storm-wrecked cottage. Also missing was the 10-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crosby of Brockton. The child was swept from her mother's arms at Wareham. A Hartford, Conn., child, Mark Bignoness, was believed washed away at Westport.

Bear Uncertain

T. L. Bear Sr., chairman of the Montgomery County Board of Education, said, "I don't know what we will do." He explained he had not expected anything like this so soon.

He emphasized Alabama's constitution forbids mixing the races in schools. All school officials are sworn to uphold Alabama's law, he said, and until the law requiring segregation is knocked out or changed, "No one connected with education could follow any other than the present procedure."

"If and when the Supreme Court hands down a ruling declaring segregation unconstitutional in all states, and the Alabama legislature passes a law in accordance with it," he said, "I don't know what we will do."

No Serious Trouble

Bear said he did not foresee any serious trouble in Montgomery because there are so many "good people, both white and Negro" here.

Dr. Clarence M. Dannelly, superintendent of schools, said he thought Principal Anderson and Asst. Supt. William S. Garrett handled the situation "beautifully."

The president of the Alabama NAACP, W. C. Patton of Birmingham said other attempts are planned to enroll Negro children in white schools in the state. He declined to say where or when.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN - MAY 27, 1966

TO: State and local school administrators; state and local school board members; mayors and county commissioners; law enforcement officials; state and local Parent-Teacher Association officials; state and local teacher association officials; teachers; civil rights leaders; community and human relations officials; and parents.

FROM: C. H. Erskine Smith, Acting Chairman, Alabama State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, 1420 City National Bank, Birmingham, Alabama 35203.

The U.S. Office of Education has recently issued the 1966-67 Guidelines for Education Desegregation. In response to specific requests, the Alabama State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, in cooperation with the Office of Education, is sponsoring a Statewide Conference on Education Desegregation Saturday, June 11, from 9:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at the Dinkler-Tutwiler Hotel, 2005 Fifth Avenue North, Birmingham. You, your friends, and your co-workers are cordially invited to attend. We believe that this meeting will be of great benefit to citizens in understanding the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as it relates to the desegregation of public schools.

The conference will start at 9:15 a.m. with a plenary session. An official from the Office of Education will give the keynote address. Among the persons invited to speak are a Justice Department official, a representative of a national civil rights organization, and an Alabama education official. Immediately following this session, beginning at 10:30 a.m., five concurrent workshop sessions will be held for the purpose of providing you with an opportunity to learn the details of the Federal 1966-67 School Desegregation Guidelines, the provisions of Title IV of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the types of assistance available to schools and communities in accomplishing desegregation, and information relating to methods and techniques of desegregating schools. Panels will include Office of Education officials, lawyers, community leaders, and educators.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. However, there is no registration fee or charge. We do request that you return the enclosed card promptly so that we may have adequate facilities available to accommodate all who wish to attend.
